

CARE INSTRUCTION ARTICLE

Dear customer!

You will find a detailed product description of BUFFALO on the swatch card of our collection but we are pleased to give you some additional information hereby. A high end and natural item such as water buffalo leather is not pigmented at all. Water buffalos, a non-preserved thai pet, live partly at paddy fields and in steppe areas. Their skin reflect a number of natural remarks which are intended as rustique effect of this leather type. At parts of high utilisation, at arm rests e. g., the leather may become more and more shiny during use.

Occasionally cleaning could be done with a soft brush or a vacuum dryer with a soft brush attachment. Further care of this open-pored leather is not possible and also not necessary as it was treated with the needed ingredients already during production in the tannery.

As all aniline leathers BUFFALO should not be placed into direct sunlight as the colour may fade at the sun facing side even though the leather matches the light fastness level 3, required by the German Upholstery Quality Guidelines.

All open-celled leathers (where no pigment is applied) and also BUFFALO show a certain colour rubb-off. This article specified property bases on the complete dye-through of such a leather which is honored by the Germany Upholstery Quality Guidelines. Gradually, depending on the intensity of use, this rub-off decreases as the surplus of colour is worn out. This process may take time even longer than the warrenty period but it is no reason to complain about.

We hope that these information in combination with our product description is sufficient for all your demands. If you need any further information please do not hesitate to contact us at any time.
